For 20 years Sharon Dunsmore was an Emergency Room Nurse and a Critical Care Educator. She got involved with dogs first as a hobby and then as a full time business.

Now having gone to the dogs for the past 25 years, running her own Dog Training Center for many of those years, breeding and living with a pack of Bearded Collies, using observational skills developed in the fast paced world of Emergency Nursing, she quickly saw the need for some education and understanding of the many dog behaviors that she saw.

Her pack of dogs exhibited behaviors that seemed to go against the traditional interpretations of most of the literature at that time and it became clear for her to start researching and delve into that side of the dog's world, where myths abound!

As time has moved on research is now starting to give us factual data that is related to dogs and not extrapolated from other species; time to move on and explore how to help our best friends using newer information.

Sharon currently manages a Private Practice dealing with dogs with issues as well as playing primarily in Agility with her own dogs.
