

Jess Martin is as well known for her accomplishments as an international agility competitor as she is for her uncanny talent as a teacher. As a competitor, Jess is a five-time National Agility Champion (with three different dogs) and was the AWC 2010 World Champion. She has also represented Canada at multiple world championships (FCI, IFCS, WAO, EO and AKC invitational) and has multiple titles in agility, obedience, and rally.

As a teacher, she pulls from her over 18 years of dog training experience to teach the most basic elements of dog training to students in a way that gives them those 'aha!' breakthrough moments with their dogs. Specializing in training from the perspective of emotional balance in sport dogs (both building motivation and soothing over-arousal), she focuses on addressing the dog's emotional state in order to enhance the dog-handler relationship and improve performance.
