About Lenore:

Lenore is a past president of CODAC and one of CODAC's founding members. She enjoys working with people and dogs and thrives on teaching the sport of agility. She loves to train individuals who are as passionate about agility as she is and who are willing to learn positive reinforcement based dog training - focusing on rewarding the dog for good behaviour rather than punishing or yelling at dogs for unwanted behaviour.

Lenore has attended numerous seminars given by world renowned agility competitors such as Susan Garrett, Greg Derrett, Susan Salo, Barb Davis, Guy Blanche, Terry Simons, Theresa Rector, and Kathy Keats. In addition to agility, Lenore has attended seminars by various dog behaviourists such as Nancy Ouellette (operant conditioning and reinforcement), Sue Ailsby (operant conditioning), Monique Anstee (reactive dogs) and the late Dr. Sophia Yin (world renowned dog behaviorist). She has also been a student of Kim Collins for many years. Over the past 17 years that Lenore has been teaching and competing in agility she has run several different dogs (mixed breeds, Rottweiler, Australian Cattle Dog, and Border Collies) -those with both high and low motivation so she understands the intricacies of handling all types of dogs. The highlight of her agility career was being the first CODAC Member to achieve the Gold Award of Merit with her border collie Jordie. Overall, Lenore's life is centered around agility, and good dog training.
